

Infrastructure Projects in the 21st Century: Diverse Perspectives Call for Papers

EXTENDED

KHEOPS is an international research consortium on the governance of large infrastructure projects located in Montreal (Canada). KHEOPS is inviting graduate students to submit papers for its 1st international student colloquium. Master's students who are ready to defend their master's thesis and doctoral candidates who have successfully completed their comprehensive examination or presented their research proposal are particularly encouraged to submit papers.

1. Submission process

Proposals must be submitted by ~~February 11~~ February 26, 2022, at the latest, to etudiant@kheops.ca. Please provide the following information:

- Complete title
- An abstract of approximately 500 words (please respect this length requirement) that presents the research problem, justifies its relevance, explains the research objectives and presents the methodology, if applicable, and anticipated results
- Up to 5 relevant keywords
- Your personal information: full name, email, telephone number, institutional affiliation and academic program

2. What to present

Proposals representing emerging reflections (500-word abstract) and more complete articles (6,000 to 9,000 words, including appendices and references) will be accepted. Abstracts and articles may be written in French or English (presentations may also be in French or English).

Papers should concern infrastructure projects (particularly in energy and natural resources, transportation, and the built environment). Multidisciplinary approaches are strongly encouraged. For example, presentations may address the following topics:

- Governance
- Stakeholder management
- Social responsibility and sustainable development
- Non-financial benefits

- Skills favouring good project management

Learn more about KHEOPS' scientific programming and research projects.

3. Why present?

The colloquium will constitute a space for you to develop and fine-tune your research.

- Opportunity to receive quality feedback from established researchers in the field
- $500 for the two best complete articles (1 master's and 1 doctoral)
- Attending a large conference (eminent researchers) about projects and their challenges
- Networking opportunity giving you a chance to become better known in academia and connect with a high-quality, dynamic community
- Opportunity to submit the best articles to a special issue of a highly ranked international project management journal (in English)

Important dates

Deadline for submitting proposals	February 11 February 26 , 2022
Notification of acceptance of papers	March 4 March 7 , 2022
Deadline for sending complete papers – Optional, to qualify for one of the prize (1 masters' and 1 doctoral)	April 1 April 3 , 2022
Date of colloquium	April 27 and 28, 2022

The colloquium will be held over two half-days to promote international participation.

4. Organizing committee

- Sofiane Baba, Ph.D., Professor, Department of Management and HR Management, Université de Sherbrooke
- Armance Brandenburg, Knowledge Mobilization Adviser, KHEOPS
- Maude Brunet, Ph.D., PMP, Assistant Professor, Department of Management, HEC Montréal
- Hafsa Chbaly, Ph.D., Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Management, HEC Montréal
- Khaoula Alaoui Mamoun, Doctoral Candidate, School of Management, Université de Sherbrooke

To learn more about the international colloquium for graduate students and share it on your social media, visit KHEOPS' LinkedIn page and website and subscribe to our newsletter.

For more information on this program

<https://www.kheops.ca/student-colloquium/?lang=en>

Please contact the organizing committee etudiant@kheops.ca

